Members are chosen for scholastic and extra-curricular excellence. Through activities like the political awareness day, when representatives from gubernatorial candidates Flourney and Brown spoke to the student body assembly, NHS tries to open up Louisville to some outside forces like politics.

2. Francie Middleton laughs with an "Ole' Coot" from St. Martin de Porres. A major goal of CSP is to awaken our small community to the woes that beset the world at large, like hunger and overpopulation, and the problems of the people all around us nearby. A Social Awareness Field Trip opened some people's eyes. A talk on World Hunger by Sr. Patricia opened some others. The Christian Service classes delved into a whole realm with exposure and service in local charitable organizations like Fish.

3. Jean Lawton also added a lot to the Thanksgiving dinner, besides many other projects like the Santa Rosa Christmas presents, the live Christmas Tree sale, the household drive for the two burnt-out families, food and clothing drives, etc...

4. Margie McKnight along with other members of CSP entertain the members of St. Martin de Porres Center.

1. The California Junior State is a statewide, non-partisan, politically oriented group of high school students who have joined together in an effort to make students' opinions and voices heard effectively where it counts-by local school boards, administrators, and Sacramento. In an unprecedented move for a private school student, Lisa Novacek defeated Jim Kutch and Eric Dozier, two candidates from gigantic public schools, in the race for Governor of CJS. (Yes, that does mean she's the big boss-lady up top.)

Unfortunately for Louisville, the CJS chapter members on campus were also state-wide officers for the organization so they couldn't devote very much of their time to the expansion of Louisville's chapter. THE OAK TREE AS AN ORGANIZATION

AMIDST the grass, sparkling with dew, and the intermittent ivy patches, there stands the mighty oak tree. Existing here now, it is a good example of the natural organization of life. The oak tree is comparable to any organization, and each limb, leaf, and root has an integral role in this process. Although the cells of this oak are separate and independently functioning, they work together carrying out the actions required for life.

UNNOTICED and forgotten by many, the oak represents the growth and organization of Louisville. The oak's branches symbolize the varied branches of this school, such as clubs and core groups. The many leaves on the branches are like people; leaves make up the branches just as people make up clubs. Together, the leaves and branches constitute a whole, similar to the whole of Louisville. Leafless the oak appears old and weathered. With leaves, normal functioning occurs and it's full of life. Without people, our school would be different, just as the oak. People are the one necessary component for growth and life at Louisville.

ACTIVITIES

ITCHY SWEATERS, ITCHY SKIRTS...

THE STORY STARTED before school began. I found myself standing outside room 15 waiting . . . and waiting . . . swapping descriptions of the summer daze. I finally made it into "THE ROOM". And then . . . I don't quite know if I've ever seen so many books. I didn't realize I had ever ORDERED so many books.

The stack in my arms and the emptiness in my wallet assured me I had bought half the supply.

ARMED WITH BOOKS, paper, schedule cards, and my old familiar, itchy skirt, I combatted that dreaded first day. I walked down the crowded hall, looking desperately for my locker. I was hoping it would open.

The rooms had a musty smell. I sat down, knowing my clean desk would soon have writing on it--and gum under it. "Welcome back to school, We are glad to see you again . . . " Well, beach, goodbye.

MY HAND STAMPED, I joined the Senior Dance. Dim lights and loud music announced the time for a fox hunt.

My friend found "men". I found 'Horn-rimmed Glasses', whose pants were too short. I danced with a Senior from Crespi. Or was it Notre Dame? Chaminade? LOYOLA!

Later, I found my sweater and purse in the corner, under the stored basketball stand.

RIDICULED and laughed at, I tripped towards the Jr. lawn. There the contests added further humiliation. A pie my big sister smashed in my face oozed down my neck and into my costume.

Later on, the Seniors showed how much they cared by their "gentle touches" on my gluteus maximus. I ran through the Spanking Machine, dreaming of revenge. We showed how quickly we had learned to "feel at home" by raiding the Senior Lawn.

INITIATION '74 - IT WORKED!

“BOW TO YOUR PARTNERS...”

CONCERN was shown by those who prepared the first student body Mass. The theme of 'His Welfare is my Concern' was displayed by a slide show on the side wall. Music was provided by the students, led by guitars and singers. As I left the Mass, I realized how lucky I was.

EATING was a natural temptation at the Barbecue Square Dance. A pleasant alternative to eating at home was given to the families who attended. I enjoyed following the directions given by the caller as I 'swung my partner round and round'. 'CHICO' and 'Carrol Merrel' made guest appear-

CATHOLIC DIGEST

1. The reason there are so many pictures of the BAR-B-QUE Square Dance is that it was so funny, especially for the country folk in the immediate area who had a good laugh at the city-slickers.
2. Mr. and Mrs. Vukalcic take advantage of this time to enjoy a good ol' country square dance, for who knows how long before their frequently required services (which they always generously give) will be called upon again.
3. After the music and quietude, Mass often erupts into a giant Kiss of Peace leaving behind a calmness and serenity which helps people to handle the rest of school.

4. Carolyn Murry courageously heads another disagreeable, (but successful), magazine drive amid grumbles, wayward magazines, and eager prize-winners.

5. The traditional Volleyball Playday again gave grade-schoolers a chance to compete against each other while meeting future friends and learning more about Louisville. Remember?

6. Voila Kim Togger freed from the clutches of the villainous salle de bain. (Sounds more exotic in French, doesn't it?)

ances at the kickoff assembly for the Magazine Drive. The prizes amazed me. I sold magazines with the hope I would win 2 tickets to 'everywhere'. Danger accompanied my sales in the form of doors slammed in my face. The pens I received had only ink. Consolation was found by having a day off.

SPIRIT seemed to be the theme for the grade school playday. Cheers of 'We've got spirit' echoed throughout the campus, as 7th and 8th graders supported their volleyball teams. It was strange to think that our team started out like this, but they've practiced a lot since then.

In October, Kim Togger locked herself in room 12's bathroom. Sister's religion class was unsympathetic, until Al unhinged the door.

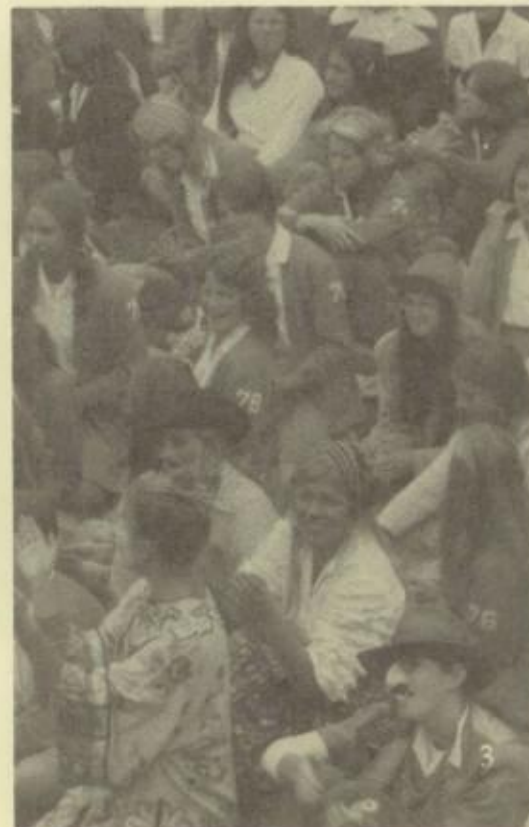

“SCREEECH!”

TOO EARLY for Halloween, this year's Junior dance was held without a theme. 'Zenith' played an unusual mixture of music. When the typically short (15 minute) band break occurred, I bought a Coke outside.

to hard-to-sew patterns. Realizing my sewing skills, I did not rush home eager to sew. Rather, I envied their talents, hoping I could learn to sew like that someday.

ON SCHEDULE, were the festivities held on the Senior lawn during Halloween. The Peanut's Gang, Raggedy Ann and Andy, and some Western farmers were there. Creeps UPCOMING fashions for fall and winter were displayed in the Simplicity fashion show. Louisville and Chatsworth models were seen in a range of styles, from easy-to-sew SENIORS finally had a decent retreat of their own at Camp Mariastella in Wrightwood. Fr. Tim, Fr. Kidney and Fr. Jabro helped create a special spirit as friends re-met each other and finally got to know some of the people they had always wanted to know. The touching feelings lasted longer than usual, but the only regret is that they aren't forever.

1. Yes, the Junior Dance really WAS a lot of fun!
2. Dr. Marla Harris is a real cut-up in class. (Forgive us, please...)
3. What is Halloween without the school party on the Senior Lawn with games, skits and candy?
4. Well, what is Halloween with it?
5. This...
6. Can one picture of one girl symbolize and convey the spirit of peace and goodwill which refreshes us at our Senior Retreats? Yes, that one girl is Paula Connolly.

and witches from Channel 9's Thriller, also made a guest appearance. Candy was thrown from the rooftops down to all the good kiddies.

The Trick or Treat skit, involving teachers, showed many of the fine qualities for which they are known. Ms. Shiffrin's concern over the additives in candy is one example of this. By the remnants of lunch on the lawn, it was obvious that most of the school had attended.

ONLY 23 SHOPPING DAYS UNTIL CHRISTMAS

HOPEFUL participants attended the speech contest. Judging Humorous Interpretation and Storytelling, I was entertained by the young speakers. Responsibility was felt as I graded them in comparison to each other. I couldn't believe how well the final rounds were done.

MANY ASPECTS of Louisville were shown to 8th graders and their parents at the Friendship Brunch. A program of singing and a preview of THE SOUND OF MUSIC were given by the students. Classroom displays were set up by the many clubs. The activities and special interests of each club were explained by their members.

THE FLOATING lab gave an opportunity to apply skills learned at school. Experiments concerning the surrounding marine life were held on the boat and land. Most participants survived the sick feelings received from a rocking boat.

1. The Speech Department has grown from novice to expert under Mrs. Glaser's creative leadership, not only earning skills and medals, but also sponsoring contests for grammar-schoolers and other groups.

2. Cindy Torsney gives an example of a common plight; almost everyone gets the opportunity of working at the Friendship Brunch at least once and usually never again.

3. Besides the serving, the Brunch is totally pleasurable largely due to the Mothers Club and the singers, dancers, and club officers who all show their talents in some way.

Soap is often found in the fountain. Some people enjoy this. At today's prices, this is expensive unless they do some laundry.

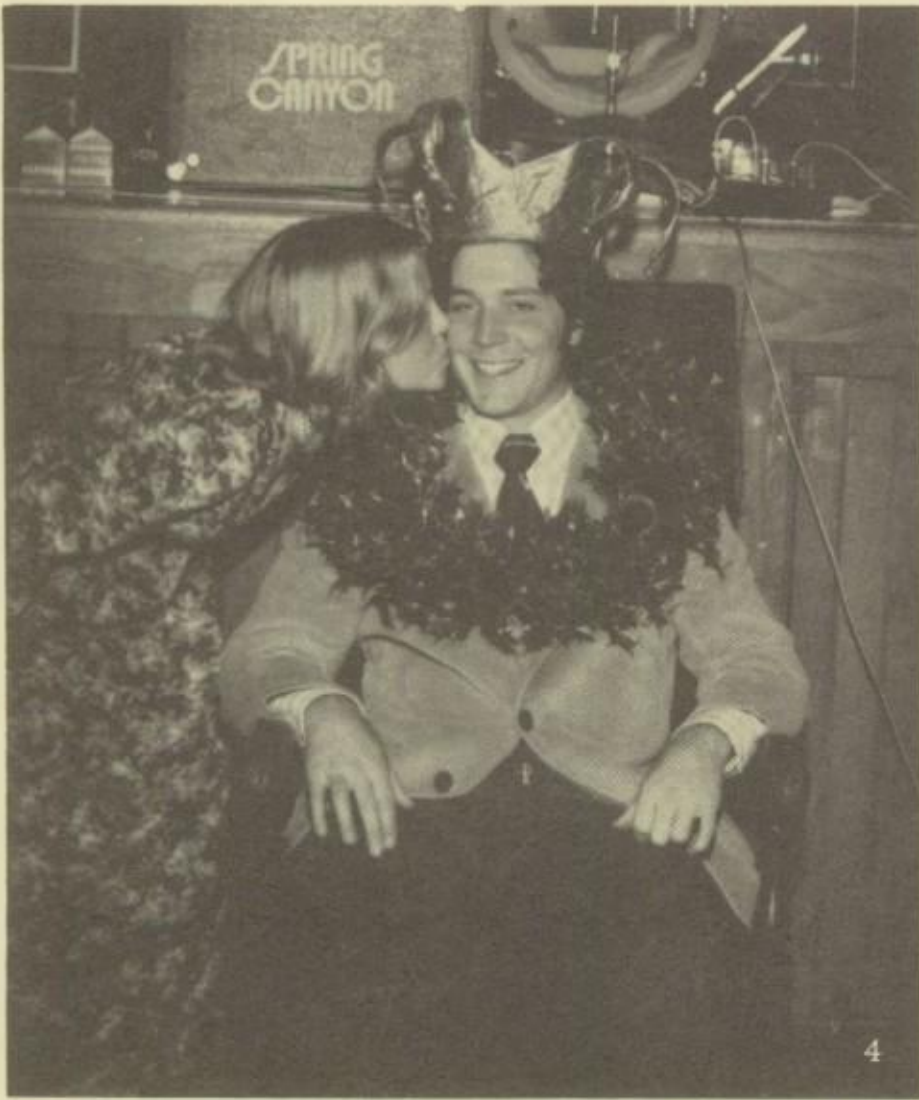

IN CONTRAST to our usual theme of Thanksgiving, our celebration of the Mass was directed toward bringing some of the world's problems into our community's focus, making parents, teachers and students especially aware of the hunger crisis, but also of many other needs of those less fortunate than ourselves. Emphasis was placed on the meaning and significance of 1975 - the Holy Year. We only hope that the growing awareness will continue to spread throughout the world as our action must.

4. Meg Reilly, Ms. Chris Hunter, Margie McKnight, and Patty Ryan share their musical gifts at Mass.
5. Becky Gaglini makes the halls more mellow with her voice and guitar.
6. A few more of the many people sharing their gifts: Mary Costanzo, Sue Burkheimer, and Julie Datomi.

4. King Gilmore, the Great, is congratulated by Lady Robinson on a superb victory.

5. A large turnout makes dancing room limited, but no one seems to mind. Couples enjoy stepping out for the evening with their dates.

6. Couples have the opportunity to meet new people, see old classmates, and dance to the music of Spring Canyon in the gaily decorated St. Louis Hall.

7. No one knows until the night of the Christmas Dance who will be the winner. At that time the candidates are brought forward by their dates as Senior class Vice-President, Fran Lasley, prepares for the coronation.

1. Fleur-de-lis, the symbol of Louisville, is a French name meaning "Flower of the lily". (Clovis is an early form of Louis) According to Legend, Clovis I used the Fleur-de-Lis as a sign of Christianity. It now appears in many forms on our Louisville campus and is part of our Coat of Arms.

2. Communion is given by Father at Christmas Mass-third school Mass of the year. Earlier at the BIG RED'S COMIN' TO TOWN!

Offertory over 500 toys collected by students were given to the Santa Rosa Community Center so that some special children could have a happy holiday.

3. Good or bad, Santa's visit brings mixed reactions from old and young alike.

4. Along with the traditional dances like the Virgin Mary, Prepare Ye, and White Ballet, the dancers presented a brand new rendition at Christmas.

THE CHRISTMAS MASS was a beautiful way to share the message of Christmas. Listening to Father John made the Mass a memorable one. At the Offertory, the collection of toys was presented to representatives of the Santa Rosa Center. Together with the slides, the dancers, and the music, this Christmas Mass brought us all closer to the true meaning of Christmas.

5. Santa and his merry elves visit school to find out what the good girls want for Christmas.

6. ... Then Santa sneaks away to have some fun.

7. MaryAnne Lipson, Kathy Law, and Paula Jo Gullo are a few of the many who inhabit the music room, at all seasons.

JUST A TASTE OF THE CREATIVE WORLD

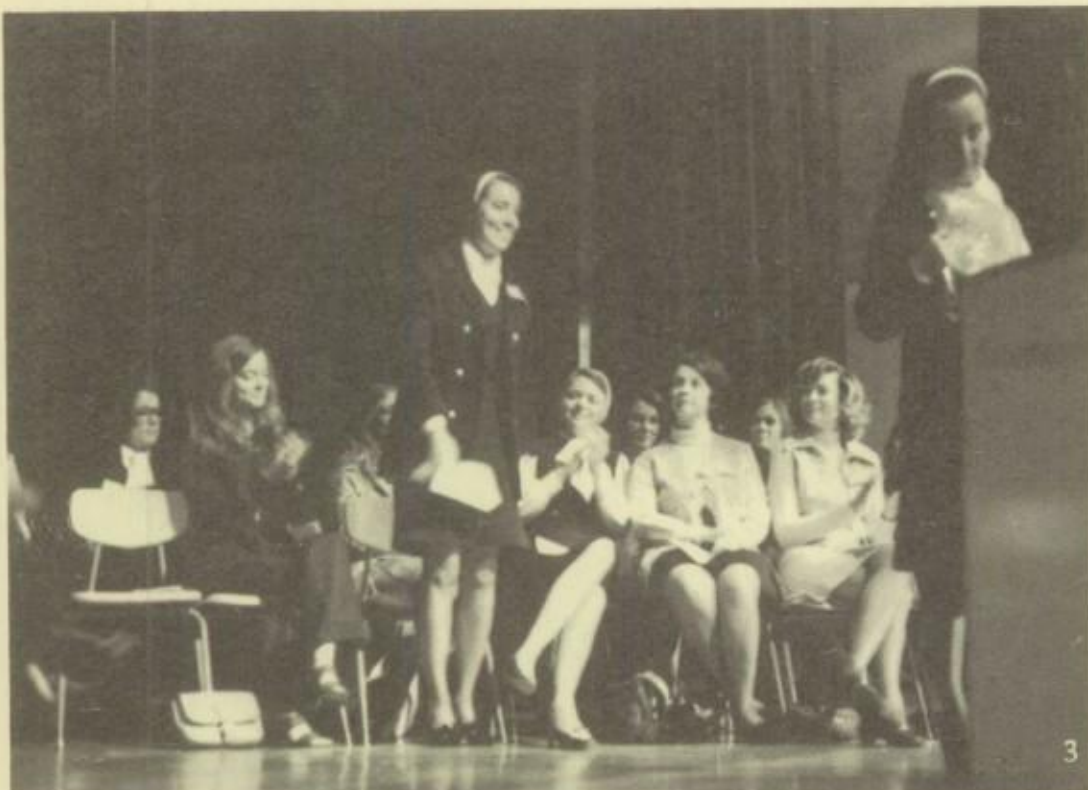

1. Mini-week gives students the chance to take courses that are not offered during the rest of the year. This silhouetted bicyclist might also have taken golf, tennis, yoga, basketball, and self-defense.
2. Other girls, like Diane Rock, enjoyed building terrariums in bark planters and house plant classes.
3. On Alumnae day, the old-timers returned to share their experiences outside of Louisville. Most were surprised to find that things hadn't changed much around campus since their own Senior year.

For the two mini-weeks, students asked for anything their convoluted minds could dream up. Then, if possible, the administration found a teacher somewhere and dragged them up to Louisville, or the students dragged themselves to wherever they could learn whatever it was they wanted to learn; often a regular faculty member learned a new skill and spent a lot of time themselves in the Library in order to teach it to some other enthusiasts. Many classes were devised to take opportunity of the different cultural backgrounds and experiences of the teachers. There were, for example, Sr. Patricia's Italian cooking class and Miss Yanis' and Ms. Smith's Spanish yucca and bananas.

4. Bea B. and other music-makers gathered for a learning session with flutes during Mini-week Two. Guitar players also had their opportunity.

5. Crafts like macrame, crochet, and leatherwork were favorites with Mary Puth and Cathy Cudahy.

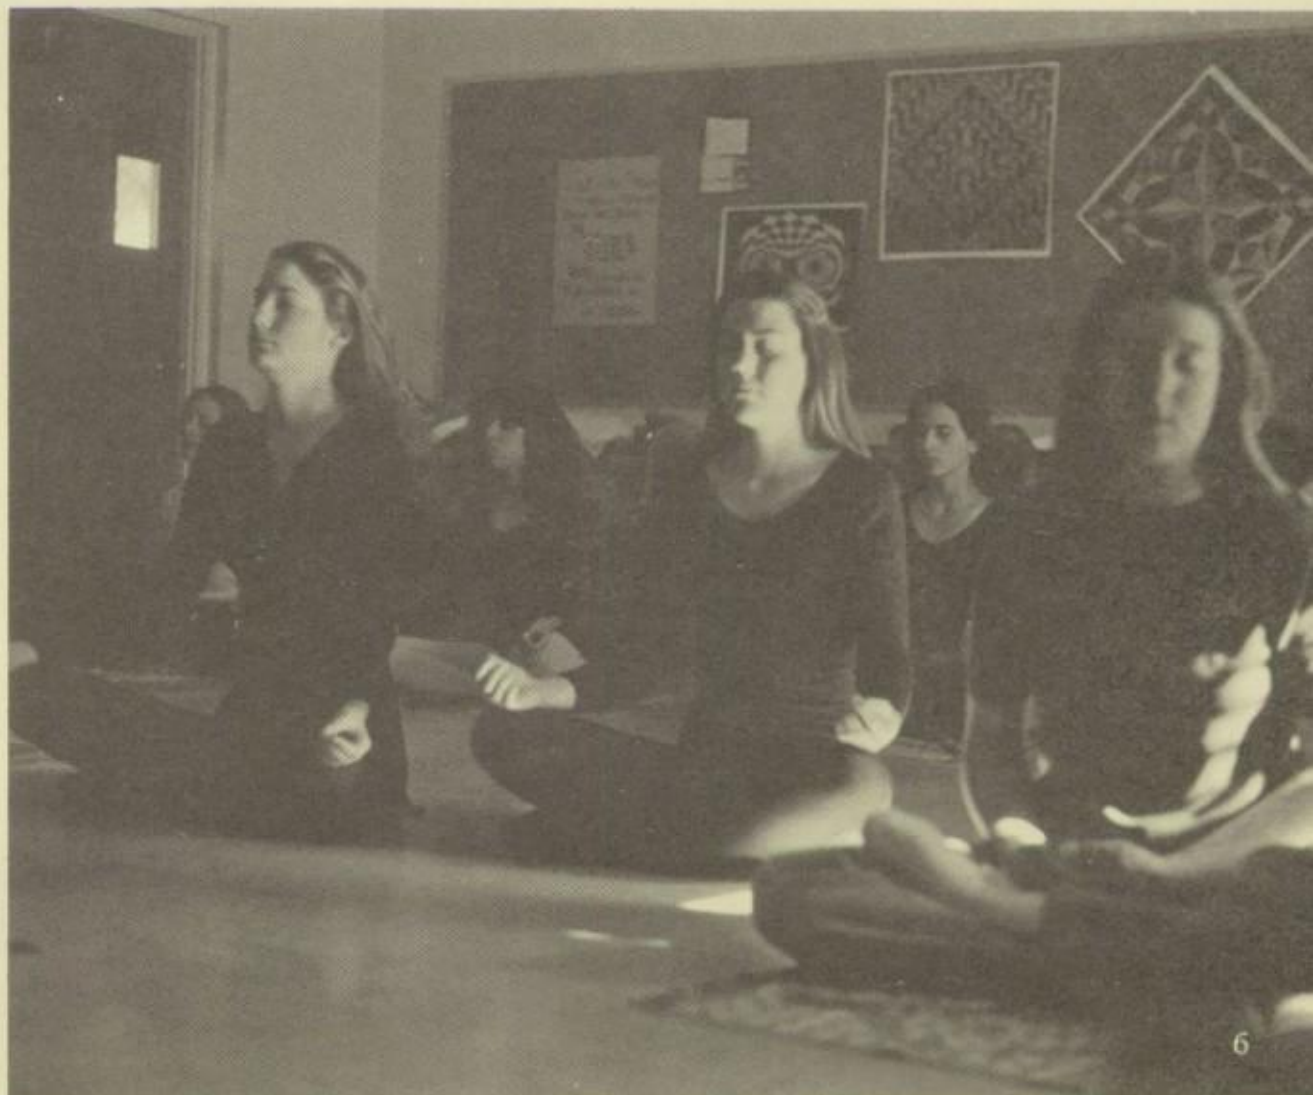

6. The yoga class was one of the most innovative and mind-opening classes; a new element was brought into consciousness for Ann Cizin, Marisa Padilla, and Kathy Harrigan.

We also had Miss Wood's Yoga Class and Mrs. Maack's Japanese cooking. Besides food classes, there were Auto Mechanics, all sorts of musical opportunities and Mrs. O'Connell's physical education services, Mmes. Cullum and Davis's Psychology of Beauty, Mrs. Hunter's bicycle class and Mrs. Bradley and Miss Mohr's houseplants. Each teacher had some specialty. Yosemite was a favorite place for the people who went there. Another option exercised by some students was to take off-campus Career Exploration, where they went to get actual work experience in the real atmosphere of a possible place of employment for the future. The two weeks between semesters gave everyone time to catch up on some sleep after finals and recuperate from the semester's work. A creative session, it enabled us to have a taste of what learning could be, given the right student and teacher attitudes.

The whole Student Body really appreciated it.

NO HOLIDAYS IN SIGHT...

The interminable months between Christmas and Easter seem to get shorter every year, or are we just going faster? We live from weekend to weekend- waiting either for work, college application results, Friday night, the next school activity or maybe some decent sleep. Seniors are starting to have sentimental "last times", while Freshmen are now living Louisville Encyclopedias. Sophomores have really gotten the routines straight and Juniors are planning how they will run the school; however, their chances don't look very good at this

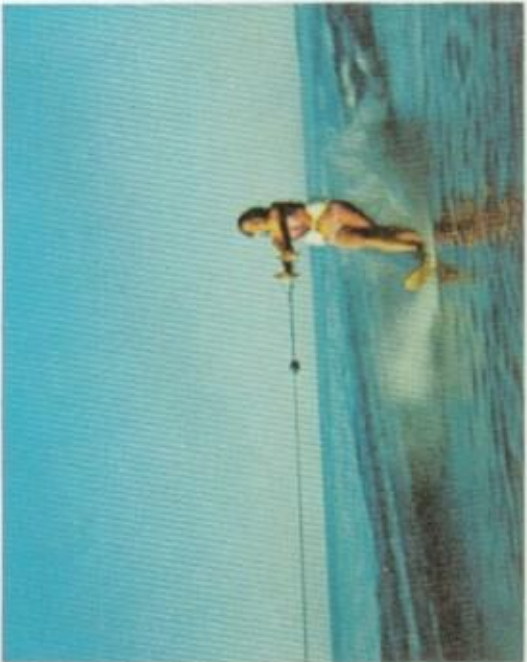

1. Santa Parker finally coerced camera-shy Mamma Anne out of retirement to be a "Famous Couple".
2. Cleo Mary Lou and Caesar Jeffries take the special time out of the year to be together on Father-Daughter Night.
3. The traditional Father-Daughter Night turned out to be a fantastic success under Student Council's organization. How could it fail with a theme like that?
4. Sue Shane, president of LVHS Keywanettes, sits with Kiwanis officials at the first annual Southern Conference held at Louisville.
5. The enviable Yosemite Institute group enjoying . . . That's all, just enjoying.

moment. The administration has advised parents that disciplinary action has tightened and rules and regulations WILL BE ENFORCED. (Seniors are simply holding their breaths.) Fr. John Malley provides an opportunity to deepen the Lenten Spirit through Masses and confessions. Although the months drag, the end of school draws near, and summer spirit is fermenting.

SPORTS

GUARANTEED SPECTATORS

Guaranteed spectators, or Old Faithfuls--our cheerleading squad. No matter how big, or little the crowd is, they are always there. And they're always cheering. Surviving occasional falls, or a misplaced voice, they keep going. A broken-arm-syndrome couldn't stop them. Appearing at a Ram's game, they performed for their largest audience.

Certainly the craziest, zaniest, members of the team followers force at games are the Class Clowns. The spectators usually end up laughing at them instead of watching the game. Which is not to say that there is anything wrong with cheering for the Clowns, however it is a trifle embarrassing for the team.

It all started on a hot September day when the Louisville Royals hit the road to defeat the Paraclete Spirits 15-1, 15-2. Three months, one tournament, a perfect 15-game record, and an infinite number of practice hours later, the Royals entered Sea Hawk Pavilion in Redondo Beach to take on Marlborough for the CIF Southern California Championship. As the television cameras recorded the historic event, two thousand fans witnessed Louisville's taking of the title. Here, the team wishes to dedicate their outstanding season to their spectacular coach, to their supportive student body (particularly our two loyal

 "...yeah, Mama,

BABY VARSITY

The success of the Junior Varsity is seen in their season record of four wins with only one loss. They adapted quickly to playing in the gym after holding most of their practices outside in varying weather, avoiding cracks in the asphalt. More spectators were at their games this year because they played before Varsity.

IF YOU COULD CALL THEM INTRAMURALS

The turnout for intramurals was not as strong as it has been in the past. This was probably because there were no homerooms this year. Seniors beat the faculty in the finale.

1. Kris Schieffer is anxious to beat the Alemany Indians.

2. Sue Holman, Kris Schieffer, Carla Daggi, Anne Parker, Carrie Sutton, Caroline Fritzsche, Joanne Matus, Sue McClean, Marla Harris, Debbie Souva (MISSING) Chris Carrabino.

4. Some people remembered about intramurals and came to support their small class meeting group.

5. Anne Parker practices setting as one of her warm-up drills.

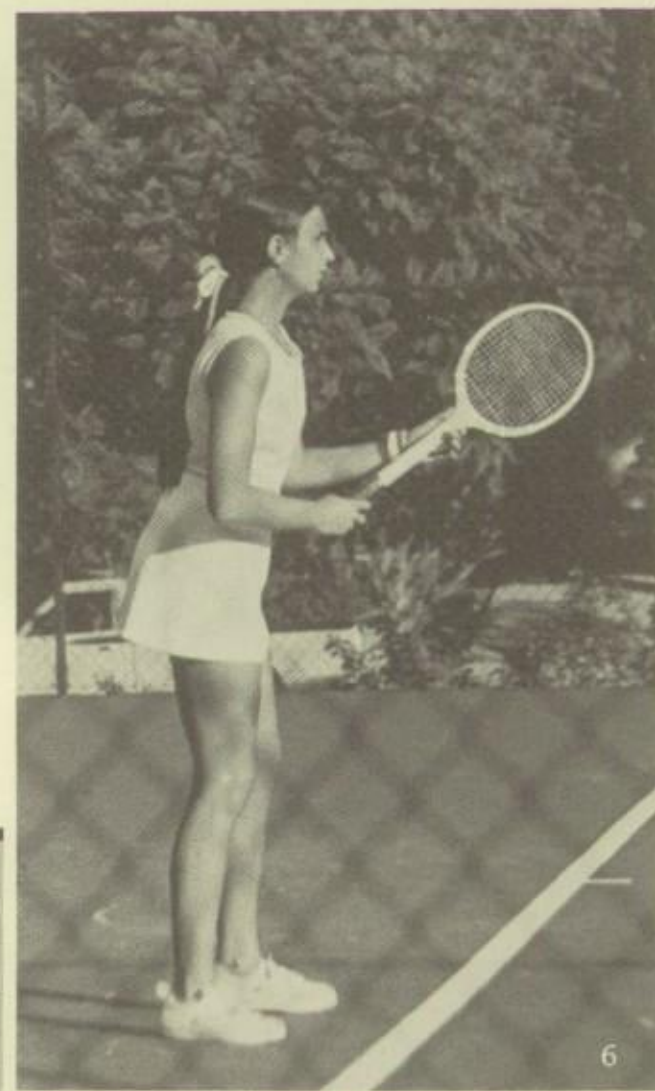

6. Missy Cepin explains the art of scorekeeping to a freshman.

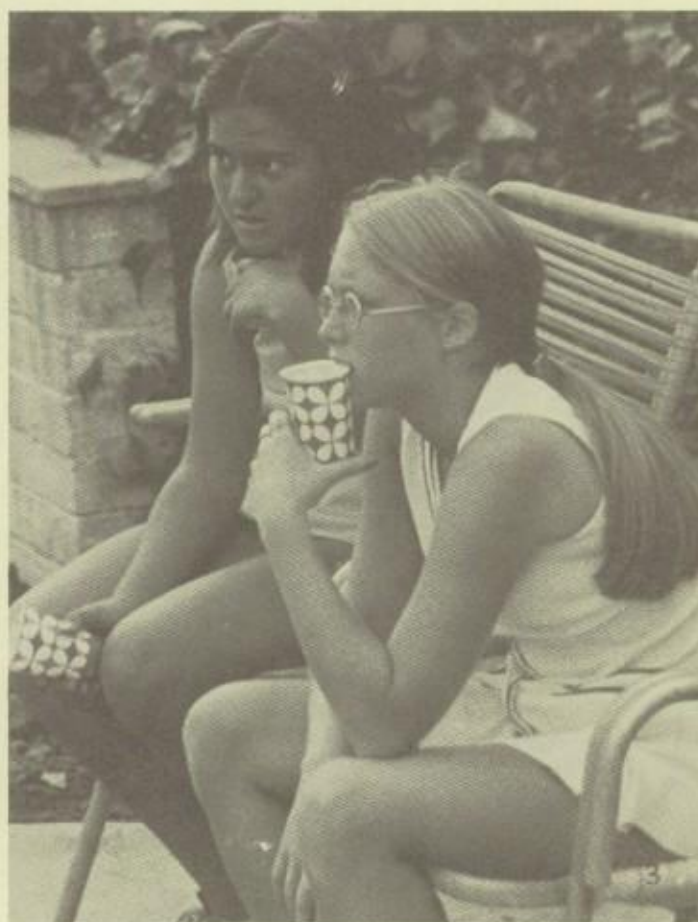

7. Interest in this game was not found, except by those playing.

HELLO TENNIS, GOOD-BYE PARKING

"And they put up some courts, and tore down
the parking lot..."

Tennis a game rapidly climbing on the social scale. It can be played as either a team effort or an individual sport; this choice seems to appeal to many people at school. As a national awareness of the increasing costs of buying and owning a car has risen, more people have joined carpools instead of driving themselves. This movement brought about the addition of a new court.

CAN WE MAKE IT IN CIF

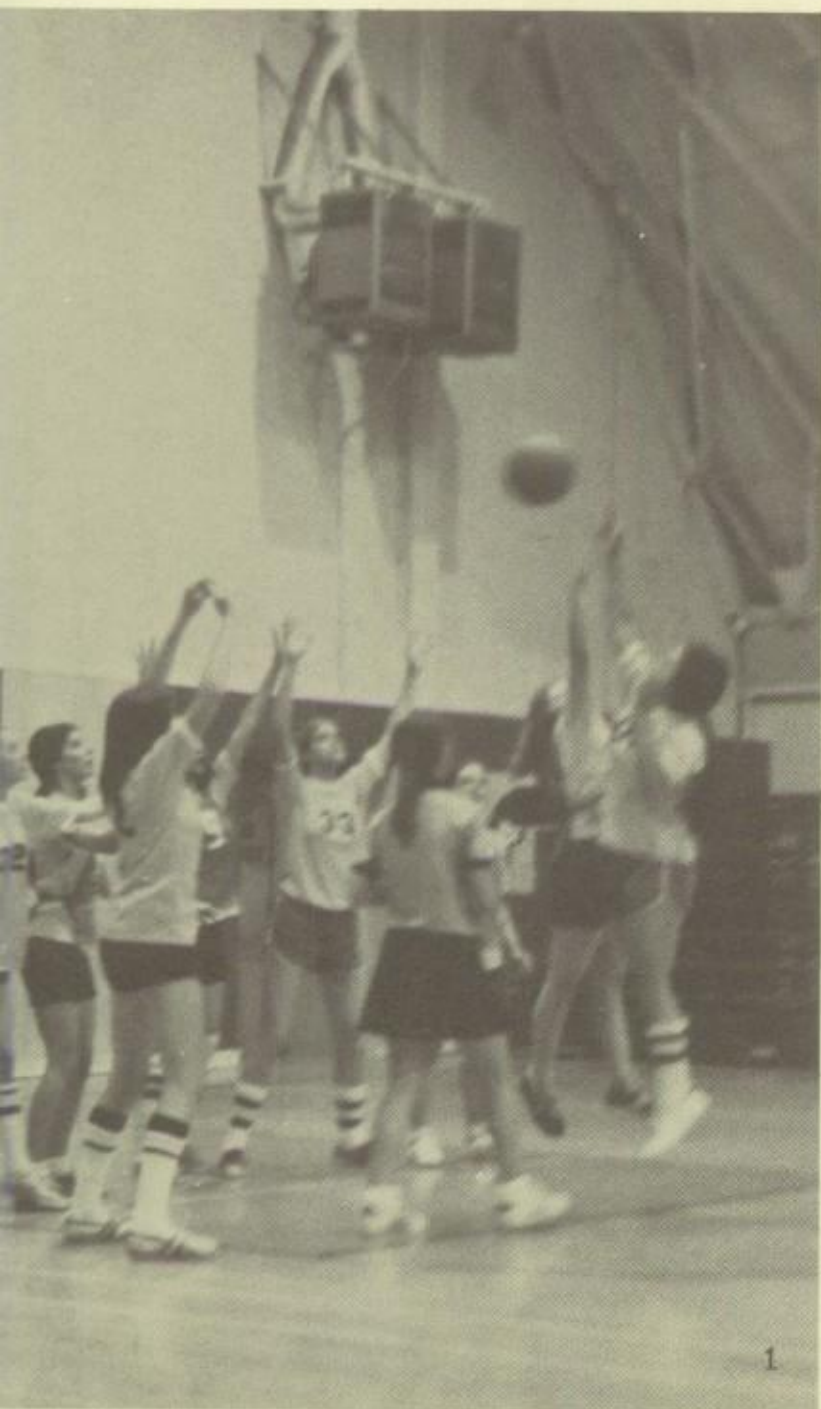

OUR BASKETBALL team joined the CIF League this year and shows the potential for playing high under the coaching of Mrs. Marla O'Connell. Robin Hunter, Meg McCafferty, and Teri Puth are the rowdy seniors on the team. Robin is outstanding for her inside key shots; her height is also a great advantage. Meg McCafferty is known for her outside shots and picking up spirits. Teri Puth is quick as a guard and she plays a good defense. The three juniors, Mary Doyle, Colleen Finnegan, and Marla Harris, work together on powerful plays which intensify the team's good character. Katie Cross and Laura Hurlbut, sophomores, are well known for their ball handling and quickness. Katie has a great reverse inside-out lay up, and Laura's outside shot never misses. Freshmen Sue Boyett and Chris Posivak's strong assets are their height and rebounding ability. In preparing for a game, Mrs. O'Connell finds that she has to start early taping ankles and legs. Over half the team has had some sort of ankle or shin splint injury. The teammates must also prepare themselves mentally so they will have a winner's view on the forth-coming game.

1. Varisty; (LEFT TO RIGHT) TOP: Laura Hurlbut, Suzy Boyett, Robin Hunter, Chris Posivak, Marla Harris. MIDDLE: Mary Doyle, Katie Cross, Meg McCafferty. BOTTOM: Teri Puth. MISSING: Coach Marla O'Connell, Colleen Finnegan.
2. "No more 'buts' about it- you're going to win this game!"
3. Robin Hunter gives a beautiful, straight body line in her reach.

1. Constant attention and backup participation are needed for any kind of effort.
2. Would you believe "the sky is falling in"?
3. Endurance is one of the major and most painfully acquired components of hard basketball.
4. "Chris-it's alive!"

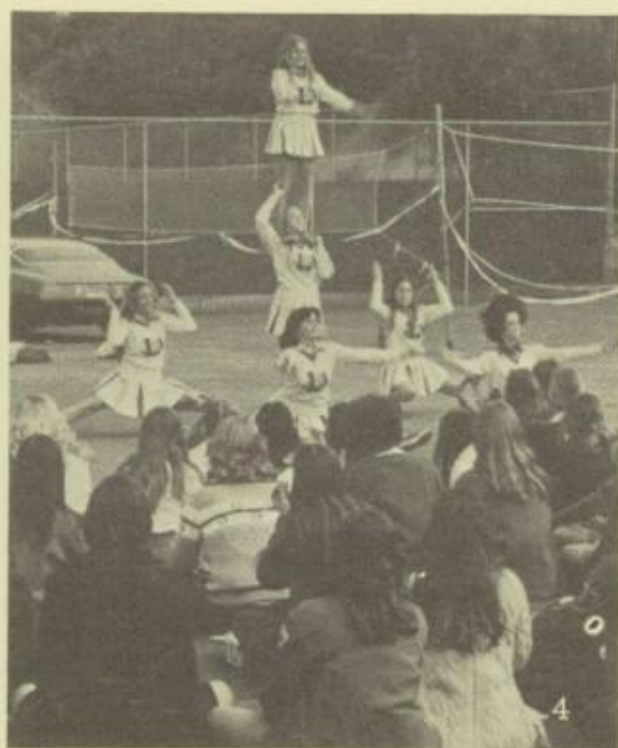

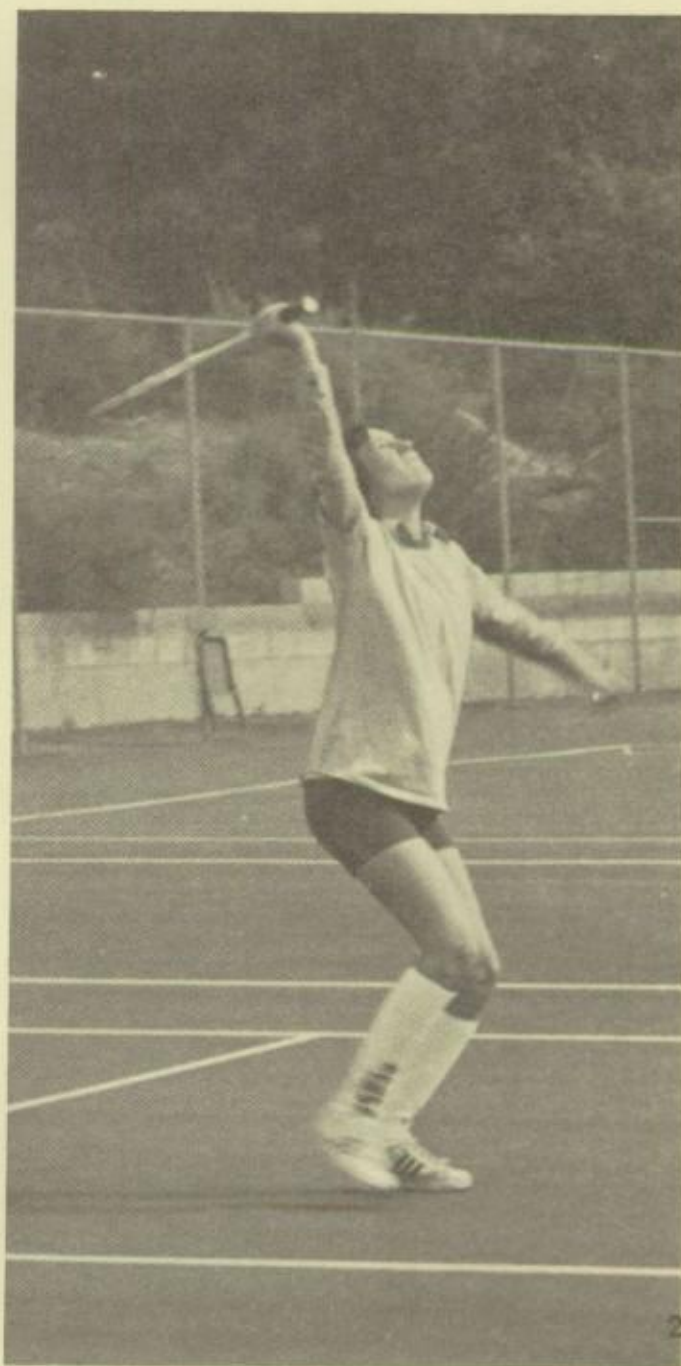

YOU SAY YOU KNEW THEM WHEN?

1. Anne Parker reaches for a sure jump shot.
2. Coach Marla O'Connell gives a few pertinent pointers at time out.
3. What grace, what agility; what a way to win the game!

THE LIGHTER SIDE OF SPORTS

2. I know it's up there somewhere.
3. What do you mean, sharks?
4. Cheerleaders Teri, Gina, Sue, Maryanne, Judy and Ann Marie exhibit their karate skills for enthusaistic onlookers.

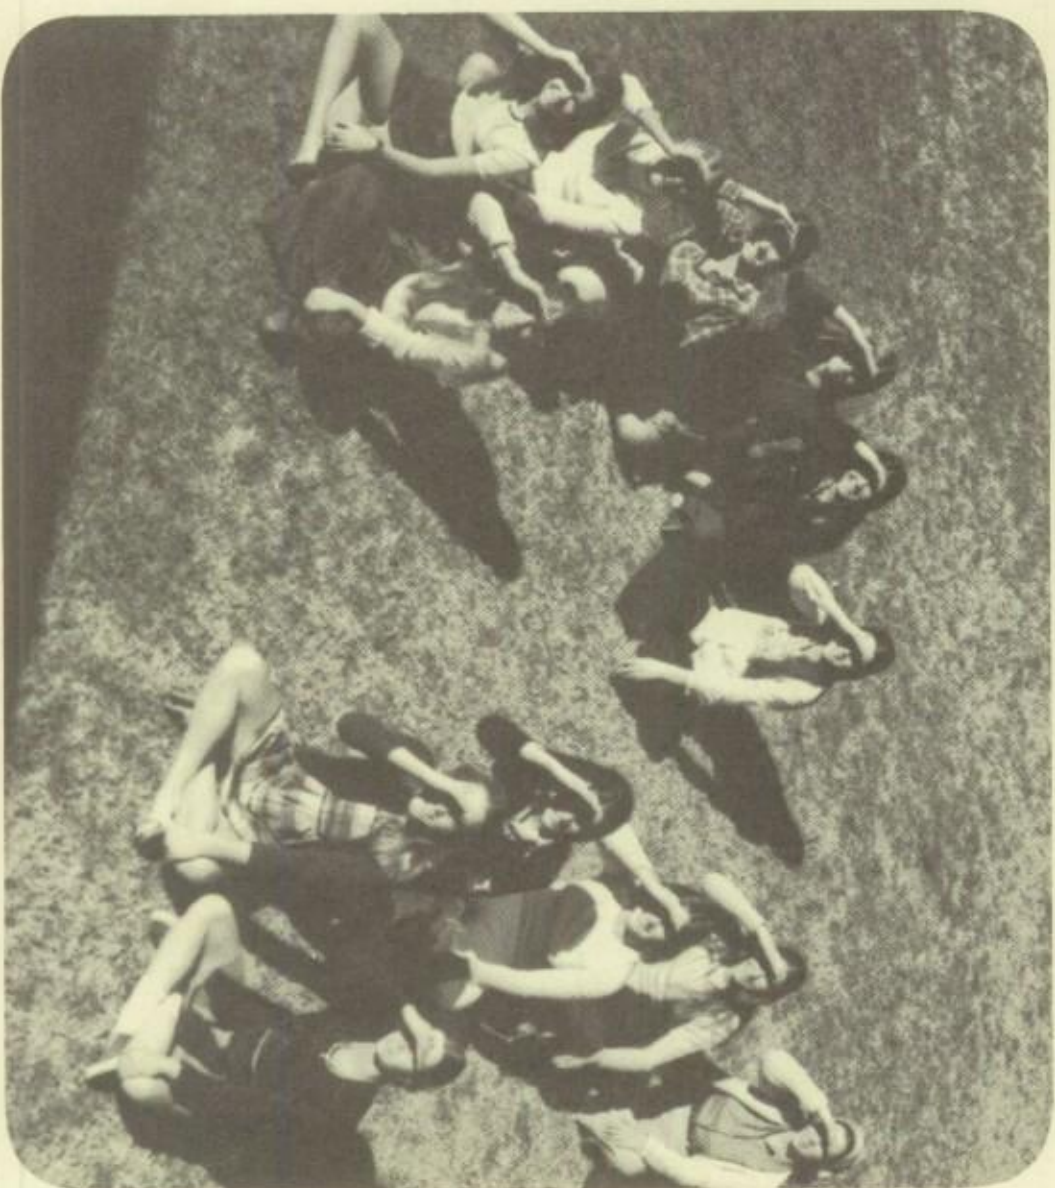

Unhand me, you beast!

...there was nothing in the 'fridge anyway.

It's strange way to get a suntan.

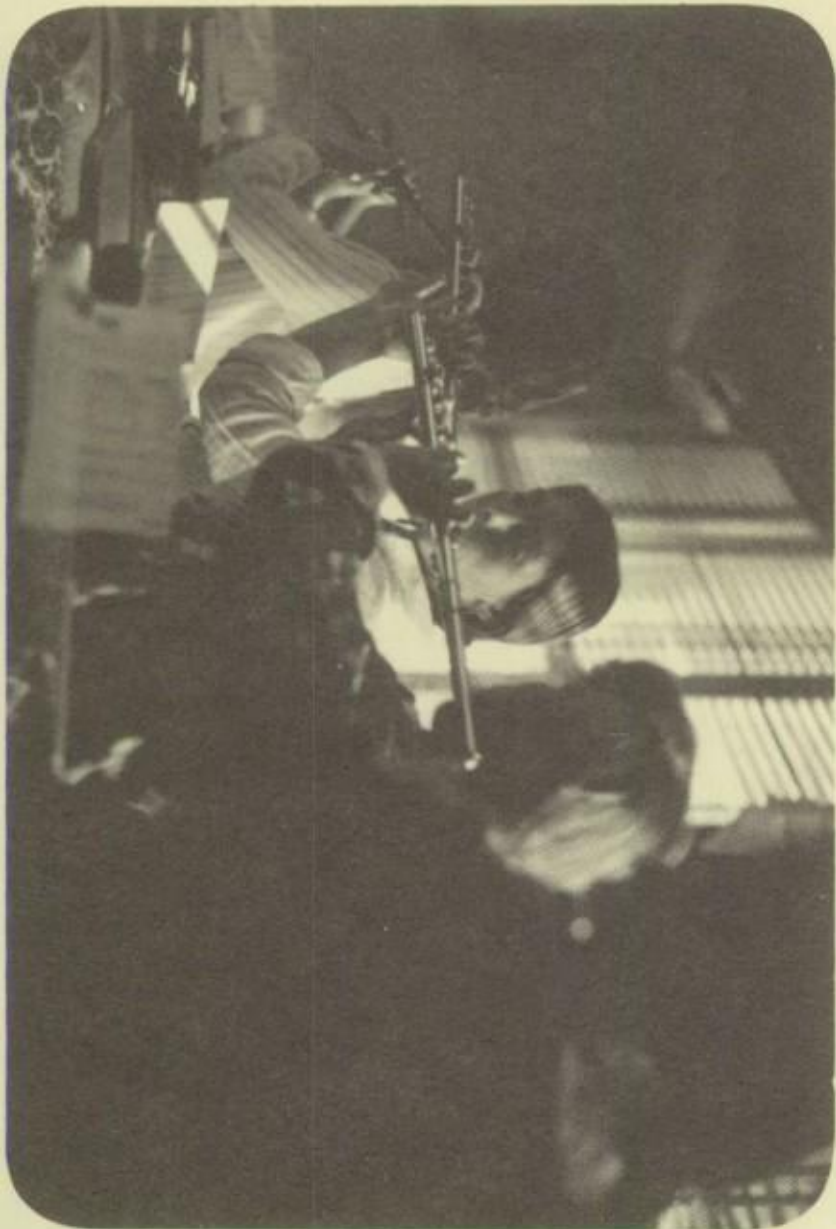

EVERY SINGLE DAY ...

Traveling incognito.

Future Jethro Tulls.

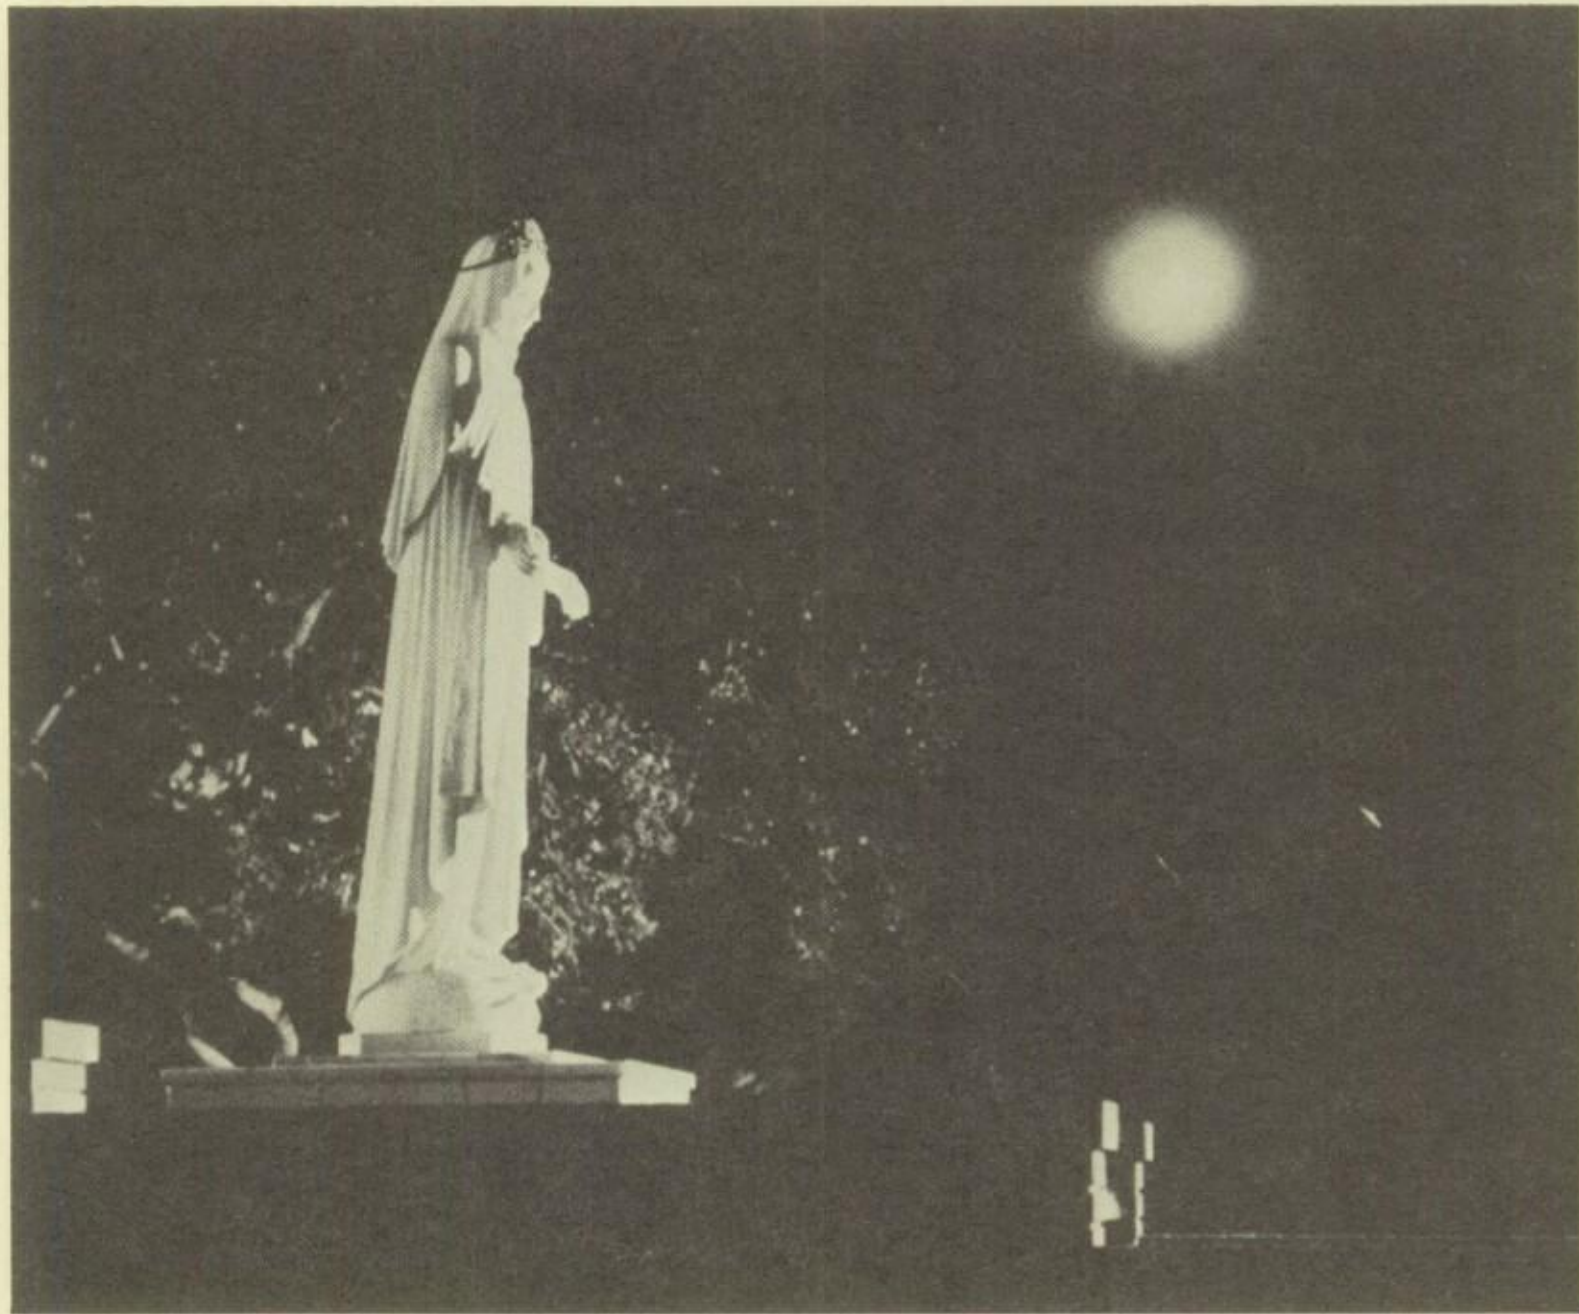

I don't know, but I think you pedal it.

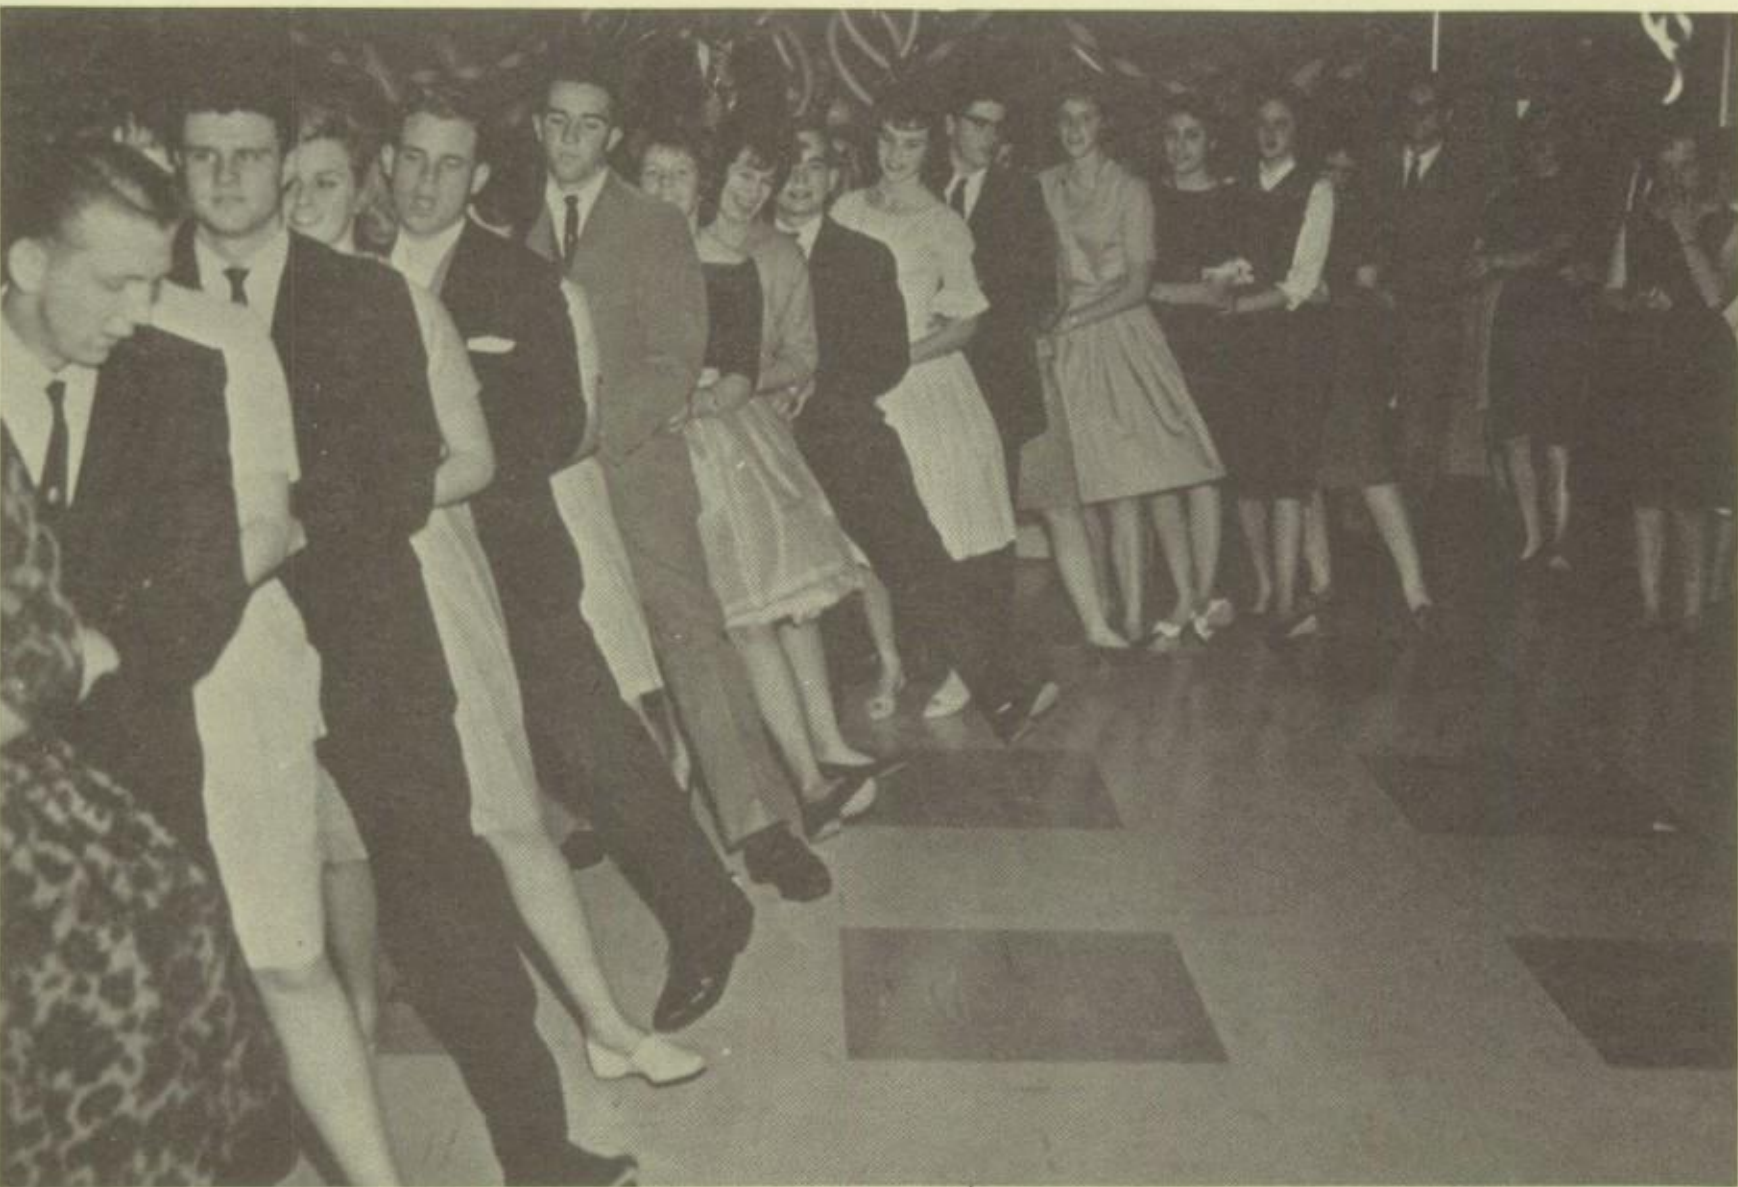

Definitely a Louisville Prospect.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO...

NEARLY 15 YEARS AGO 96 people (91 freshmen and 5 teachers) came to Louisville not knowing what to expect or how it would turn out. With only 2 buildings and no desks to sit in, they formed a real community of people working together as one body for one cause: a great school for learning how to get through life.

“...they formed a real community of people...”

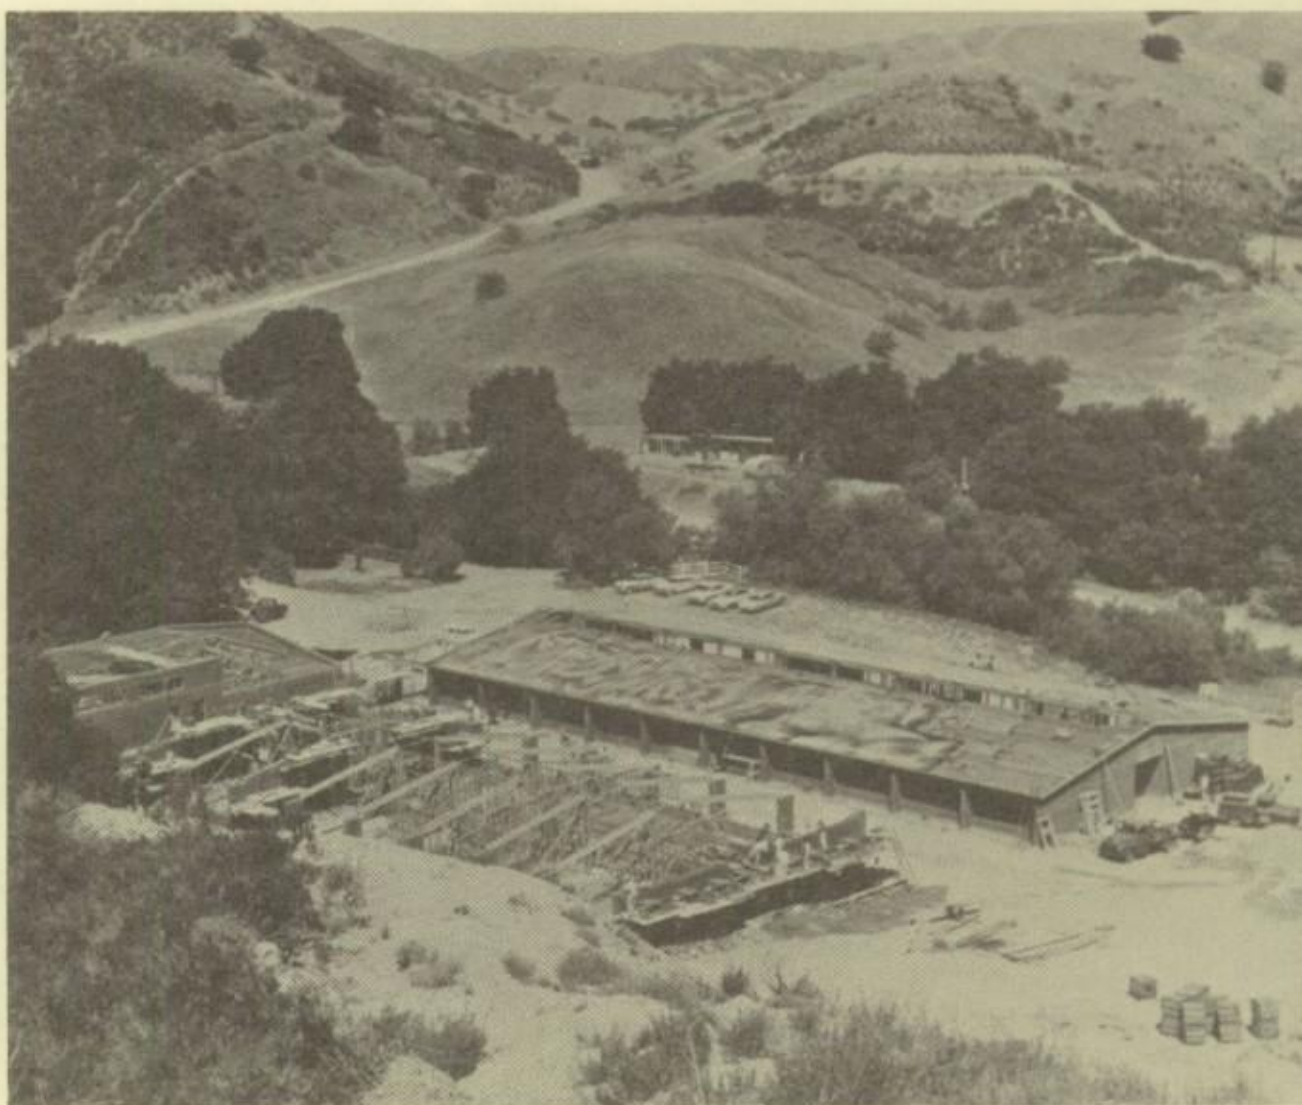

Naturally, that first year was the hardest.

There was much landscaping to be done, other buildings to be finished and classrooms to be fixed up. There was an Alma Mater to be written along with a constitution. Above all, there was an education to receive.

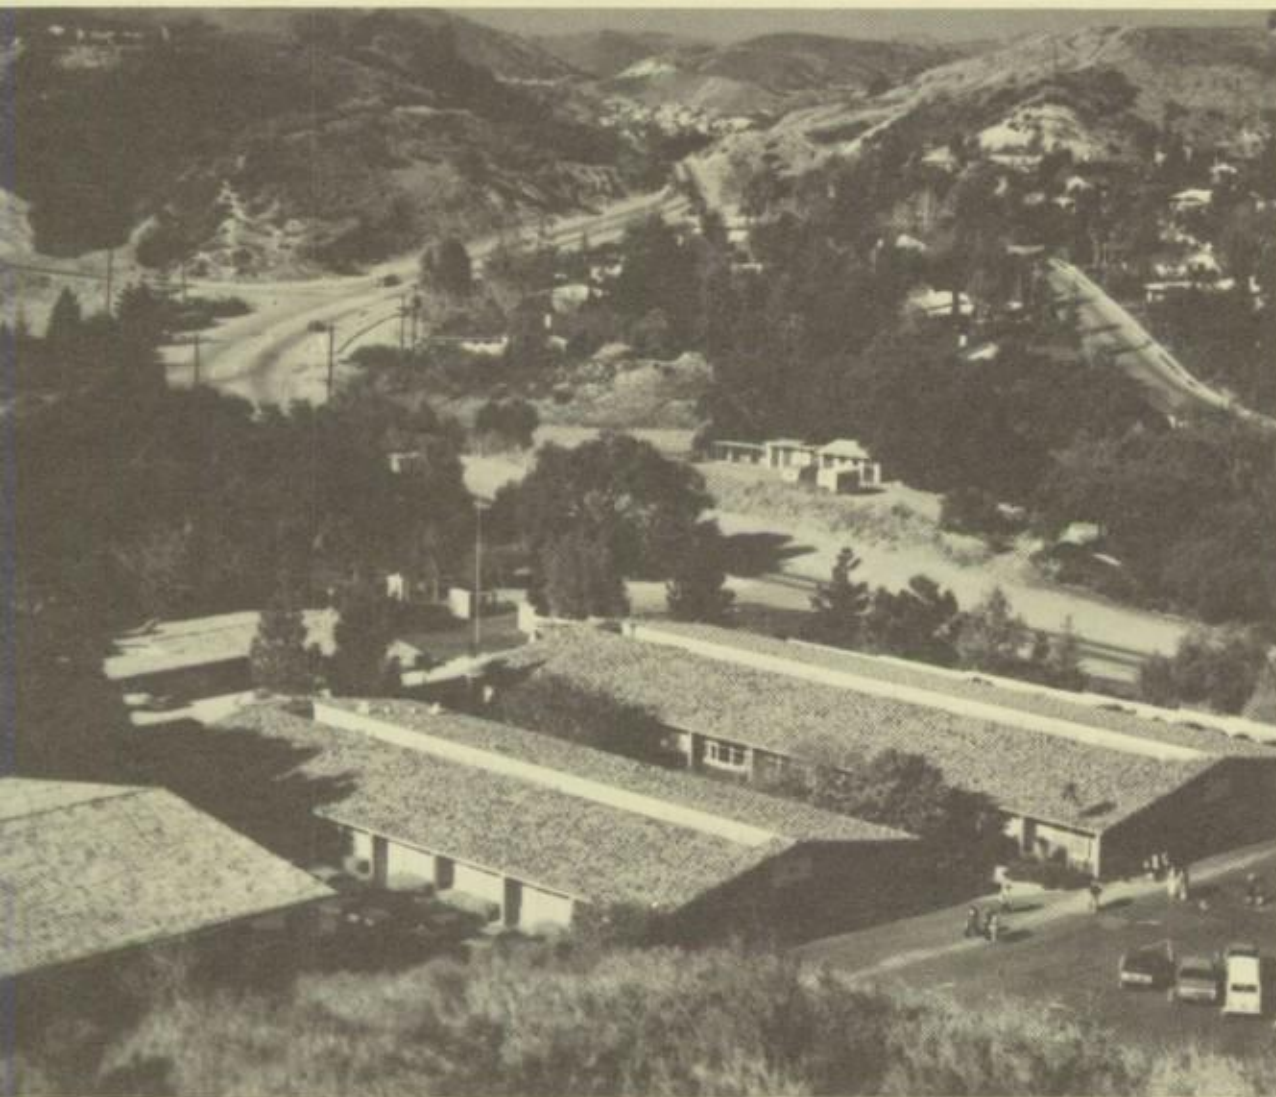

Lack of things such as pavement and buildings did not hinder the spirit of the students. Dances were held in rooms 1 and 2. Volleyball games were played at St. Mel's. During rainy seasons, school would sometimes be closed because of the muddy roads. During dry seasons the students would be evacuated because of fires. And yet the school lived on.

Physically the school has changed immensely in these past 15 years. There are many more buildings and lawns. We now have paved roads leading up to school. There are 40 specialized faculty members and 600 students. Yet the spirit is the same. We are still a community of people striving for a great school together as one body.

AND WE KEEP ON GROWING

“Physically, the school has changed immensely...”

“We are still striving for a great school.”

Tennis shoes are a definite "no-no", and the T-shirt should not be displayed (once worn!). Those rolled-down socks prove she is a (Oh horrors) sunbather. But she is not a sinful child in the eyes of her peers. The disobedience of a uniform code has become 'uniform' among most students. Ski jackets, curlers and open-backed shoes are a cause of much controversy among students and faculty. Notice Gulee is a studious person, proved by a notebook she carries at lunchtime.

1. "What the h- heavens!" says Santa Bridget McGinley as she graces the traditional Christmas party on the Sr. Lawn. Karrie Bragg is surprised by this uncharacteristic statement of Santa's while Miss Statue of Liberty Dwan and Miss Christmas Tree-of-the-Year Ferguson look on with mixed reactions.

2. As usual, Celeste Pestlin is up a tree laughing (when not locking gates) at Paula Jo Gullo's exuberant antics during lunch. The way these two maintain their constant high spirits is a 4yr. phenomenon.

1. Notice how WELL these Seniors-Liz Hughes, Stacie Dimon, Lark Corbeil and Kathy Roshay-utilize their free time on the lawn by making the most of the sun, the wind, and good company. Of course, sometimes it's mostly the good company. Eh, Stacie?
2. Now, Judy Hourihan! You know the penalty for assault; put that down! . . . Yearbook is only trying to get the feel of the school-the picture is CUTE!
3. Rosie Multari class-clown's around full time, fortunately, for all us ringside seaters.
4. Clockwise from 12 o'clock: Mysterious Mo Esnard, Celeste Pestlin, Babe Lauren Bohlig, and Naughty Loretta Niederer. (Note: no, this wasn't a special activity. They're just being normally expressive.)
5. Well, well, well . . . (what have we here, etc.). Could it be the elusive, rarely photographed, photographer-boss T.D. (Terry Dwan)? She is shown here articulating for some stirring campus issue. Notice that unobtrusive disguise, cleverly varied each day.

For those of you who are considering a career in medicine or in any of the ancillary careers, I want to say that you have chosen a very humane and select group of people with whom to be associated. Choose the school of your wishes and keep in mind the value of good training and stay with it.

After you have graduated, being girls, you will be faced with the problem of choosing a career or getting married or both. In regard to this I'd say do what your hearts and minds dictate.

Any form of medical training fits a girl for work in the medical field and I assure you it is most rewarding.

TO THE LOUISVILLE STUDENTS:

In the point of rest at the center of our being, we encounter a world where all things are at rest in the same way. Then a tree becomes a mystery, a cloud a revelation, each man a cosmos of whose riches we can only catch glimpses. The life of simplicity is simple, but it opens to us a book in which we get beyond the first syllable.

When you part with your friend,
you grieve not;
For that which you love most in

A sepia-toned photograph of a tree-lined sidewalk. Several people are walking away from the camera, some holding umbrellas, suggesting a rainy day. The sidewalk is paved with bricks, and the trees are dense and leafy. The overall mood is nostalgic and peaceful.

To the Seniors

May the road rise to meet you May the wind be always at your back
May the sun shine
 warm upon your face
May the rains fall
 soft upon your fields
And, until we meet again,
May God hold you

To look at any thing,
If you would know that thing,
You must look at it long:
To look at this green and say
'I have seen spring in these Woods,' will not do--you must
Be the thing you see:
You must be the dark snakes of
Stems and ferny plumes of leaves,
You must enter in
To the small silences between
The leaves,
You must take your time
And touch the very peace
They issue from.

John Moffitt

Come to the woods, for here is rest.
There is no response like that of the green deep woods.
